A Successful Year In Review
Improving the Lives of Animals

A Pivotal Moment for the Human-Animal Bond

I want you to think about the animals in your life. What they mean to you, and you to them. What comes to mind? Which moments stand out?

Is it the weekend getaways with the pup? The relaxing morning reading with the cat? Or maybe it's the afternoon spent embracing your inner child with your rabbit or guinea pig? If you are not a pet owner, is it the animals you help as a volunteer? The dogs in your neighbourhood? The cat next door for whom you're the unofficial babysitter?

These are more than delicate, daily moments in our lives, aren't they? They speak to something deeper, something more profound. They speak to a special bond which lifts us up, brings us together, and provides us with the perspective we need when we need it most.

This bond has been an important part of my family's lives. From our days in Battleford, Saskatchewan—in which we cared for eight rescues, four horses, and a wide variety of other species—to today, with our beloved cat Sterling. The bond I have shared and continue to share with animals has always been an anchor in my life. A support during even the toughest of times.

I think you'd agree with me that this is a bond worth fighting for, not just for ourselves, but for our community.

For this year's Celebrating Success, I want to showcase the accomplishments Toronto Humane Society has had in strengthening this precious bond and setting the stage for its preservation for generations to come.

Thank you for your unwavering support, here is some of what we accomplished in 2021.

200

Over 200 animals were cared for through our Urgent Foster Care Program while their parents got back on their feet.

700
