

Shelter Care Q2 Impact Report

$63

The average cost of vet care
per animal per day

$59

The average cost of shelter
care per animal per day

Bob Dylan - Master of Tricks

Bob Dylan was a long-stay cat that was adopted in May.

He was transferred into our care in 2018, and then was returned in November 2019.

He received extensive behavioural training from Dr. Jacklyn Ellis, Director of Behaviour, and with the support from his dedicated Foster Parents Bob Dylan learned a few training ticks such as lie, sit, shake paw, stand, high five, ad spin.

By the time of his adoption, his conflict aggression was reduced. His family is continuing Bob Dylan's training with our Public Training Services.

Surviving a Large Balcony Fall

One day Toby's curiosity got the better of him when he found himself on the ledge of a balcony. He slipped and fell 10 storeys. When he hit the ground, his back leg shattered in several places, leaving an open wound.

Toby received emergency medical care. After weeks of being monitored, he is now living in a special foster home where he will continue to rest and recover – but his journey to recovery is not over.

Toby will likely need intensive rehabilitative care at Toronto Humane Society. Specially customized for him, his rehab program will likely include months of regular checkups and at-home exercise programs to build up his strength, work on flexibility, and manage any pain he could experience down the road.

96

Animals, on average, are onsite everyday

450

Animals were adopted in April,
May and June

Helping Two Cats with Ringworm

Meowth and Purrolin, two 2-year-old cats, tested positive for ringworm.

They were able to receive most of their treatment in a foster home, and finished their treatment in s shelter while waiting clearance from isolation.

In April they were cleared and received their spay and neuter surgeries. They were adopted less than a week later!

